

I wrote the music to the short film in close collaboration with the director/producer Saana Wang. I also participated in the mixing and the timing of the music to the video itself. The film is based on a poem of 2156 words. The film takes us from the Louvre to small village streets and caves in China. We will also visit the NASA training area located in The Great Salt Lake Desert and its barren vistas and witness an Apollo Mission rocket taking off.